The first clash between two of boxing's most talented fighters was a study in adaptation. Opening as expected, the Welterweight Title unification bout saw the lankier Hearns keeping his shorter opponent at a distance while scoring with long jabs at will. A brilliant strategist, Leonard knew the fight could not continue this way, so he changed up his game plan and aggressively went after "The Hit Man." "Sugar" Ray's assertiveness carried him through the 6th and 7th rounds, but soon Hearns adapted himself, swinging the fight back in his favor by boxing instead of brawling. The fight looked to be going the "Motor City Cobra's" way until Leonard threw

Although it lasted for 12 thrilling rounds, this 1990 bout between Mexican hero Tulio Cesar Chavez and Philadelphia prodigy Meldrick Taylor is remembered for two seconds. Fast-paced from the start, the bout was Taylor's early on as he avoided many of Chavez's blistering blasts and pulled ahead on points with his stick-and-move offense. Yet, towards the final rounds, the tough Mexican began to connect, punishing Taylor with endless shots. By most estimations, Taylor was winning on paper going into the 12th. but his corner convinced him otherwise, he attacked instead of avoiding the dangerous brawler - a miscalculation that led the fighter right into a flurry of brutal punch-

The first round began with Barrera throwing combinations, leading with his trademark left hook to the body. Morales's lanky, tall frame providing a perfect target against which to test Marco's attack. Barrera is fierce, while Morales stands his ground, throwing back punishing combos, using his killer right hand to punctuate them. After the referee cautions Morales on a seemingly low blow towards the end of the round, Barrera refuses to touch gloves to Morales's apology.

Round two begins at a slightly slower pace, but soon picks it up. The combos start flowing from Barrera, while Morales deems it wise to counter Marco's violent onslaught by being even more violent himself. A particularly impressive combo from Barrera starts with the jab, followed by the right hand cross, and then the left hand uppercut that pushes upwards and backwards Morales's head. Barrera won rounds one and two clearly, since Morales is still struggling to match his opponent's level of intensity.

Great counterpunching by Barrera in round three; when Morales plunges in, he gets caught with Barrera's left hook to the body, which stops him temporarily in his tracks. However, when "El Terrible" reacts, he comes back a big stage with such a highly even fiercer, throwing three punch combinations to the head, taking a step to the side, and doing it again.

All the while Barrera keeps his defense up and then goes on the attack himself. In round four, Morales lands a huge right hand on Barrera, and then falls victim to his own over-enthusiasm, as he loses balance while trying to land heavy shots, and hits the floor on a slip. Barrera quickly recovers.

There's a sense that Barrera's experience is carrying him through, while Morales is still trying to adapt to being on such
